City of Calabasas Environmental Commission
Honors Randi Feilich with 2020 Carl Gibbs Award

The City of Calabasas Environmental Commission has given the 2020 Carl Gibbs Environmental Excellence Award to resident Randi Feilich. Feilich has been tireless in her efforts to eradicate the use of rodenticides in Calabasas, ensuring that the poisons do not continue to make their way up the food chain and ultimately into wildlife like bobcats, pumas, coyotes, raptors or even household pets. Feilich also serves as Project Coyote's Southern California Representative.

"We are honored to give this year's Environmental Excellence Award to Randi Feilich, who has worked for many years on a wide range of local environmental initiatives," said Calabasas Mayor James R. Bozajian.

The Carl Gibbs Environmental Excellence Award honors a wide array of individuals, businesses, municipalities, government agencies, organizations, and institutions, all working to benefit our environment. The Award recognizes voluntary activities by organizations, companies, or individuals performed in the City of Calabasas and surrounding communities that result in cleaner air or water, less waste, less traffic, conservation of energy and natural resources, efficient and water conserving landscaping, or reduced use of hazardous materials.
