This past year brought many new projects and concerns for the panel to address, importantly how to balance the many goals of the city and community and to be sure all stake holders are heard and new state mandates are addressed. It will take many in the community working together this year to secure the vision of our community and address the need for growth and modernization.

It continues to be so inspiring to work with the city and my colleagues on the ARP, I believe our work will be especially important this year to support the staff and city to continue to enhance the quality of our community, making it beautiful, safe and welcoming.
