CITY of CALABASAS

What does CLG mean for the HPC?

- Calabasas has been a Certified Local Government (CLG) for Historic Preservation since 2009; as such, the City of Calabasas is empowered with certain responsibilities and authorities under the federal and state laws governing historic resource protection.
- To achieve CLG status the City had to create and adopt a historic preservation ordinance (fully providing for all facets of historic preservation as specified by law), establish a Historic Preservation Commission, and conduct an inventory of historic resources in the City.
- To help ensure that we can continue carrying out our obligations and duties as a CLG, every year the Historic Preservation Commission members and staff must receive annual training and education on historic preservation law, applicable rules and guidelines, architecture and architectural history, and other matters relevant to historic preservation (2 hours minimum).
- Without CLG certification, reviews and decision-making concerning local landmarks would fall to the Calif. State Historic Preservation Office.

Project Review - Commission Responsibilities

Evaluation

The Secretary of the Interior's Standards and Guidelines are the basis for how the City reviews historic resources and projects.

Recommendation

Reviews must consider the most appropriate treatment(s) for, or in relation to, the subject resource, and whether proposed work will accomplish the treatment(s) in a manner consistent with the standards and guidelines.

Ultimate Decision

A GLG's review authority encompasses local landmark designations, local historic district designations, Certificates of Appropriateness, Waivers, and Mills Act determinations.
